CSNA Medalllic Awards

By L. C. PANOSH, San Diego

It is appropriate and fitting that a numismatic association should reward its members for honors earned with medals rather than with certificates, ribbons or some other form of award. Coins are a form of medalllic art as are medals, and in many cases well-known artists have furnished the designs for our coins. In addition, medals have the advantage of permanence, as well as being objects of beauty.

In 1956 the Executive Board adopted such a program for CSNA, the four medals to be presented being a medal of merit, a literary award, an exhibit award and a past president's medal. The medals, described below, are all products of the Medalllic Art Co. of New York.

MEDAL OF MERIT

This 3-inch silver medal, showing the lamp of knowledge, bears the inscription "Medal of Merit" and the name of the Association. The recipient's name and date appear on the reverse. It is awarded by the Board for services to the Association and numismatics of an extraordinary nature. No more than two may be awarded in any one year. Only two medals have been awarded thus far by the Association. These were presented at the 1956 Santa Barbara convention to Dr. Calvert L. Emmons, founder and first president, and to Charles V. Kappen, editor of Calcoin News.

PAST PRESIDENT'S MEDAL

This is a 2¾-inch silver plaque, showing the lamp of knowledge and bearing the inscription, "Honor, Duty, Achievement". The medal is bestowed automatically on retiring presidents. Name and dates are engraved on the reverse. Dr. Calvert L. Emmons, Ralph A. Mitchell, Leonel C. Panosh and Dr. Nathan A. Bowers were presented with past president medals at the 1956 Santa Barbara convention.

LITERARY AWARD

This 2½-inch medal is awarded in silver and bronze. It will be presented each year to writers of the two articles appearing in Calcoin News which are adjudged by a literary awards committee to be the best for that year. Presentations for 1956 will be made at the 1957 spring convention at Vallejo.

Convention City

Vallejo, the city where the CSNA will celebrate its 10th anniversary and will hold its 20th semi-annual convention, is itself in an historic area of California, Solano County — where much of the state's history was written, even before the Gold Rush.

Properly pronounced Vah-lay-hoh (Spanish version, Vah-yay-hoh), the city was founded in 1850 by General Mariano Guadalupe Vallejo of Sonoma, a man who figured prominently in events of the days before and following the famous Bear Flag raising in Sonoma in 1846. Near Vallejo to the west still stands General Vallejo's adobe home.

For a short time, Vallejo was the capital of California, as was its neighbor, Benicia. It lost out because General Vallejo was unable to fulfill promises to provide a suitable capitol and housing for state officials.

The little city of Benicia, in early numismatic records, invited tourists of a century ago to "view minting operations" there.

PNNA ASSISTANT CHAIRMEN

William N. Worth, general chairman of the Pacific Northwest Numismatic Association convention in Portland, Ore., May 24-26, has named Bert D. Allumbaugh and Lloyd L. Ruff as his assistants. Worth and Allumbaugh, CSNA members, have attended California coin conventions.

Worth's address is 2146 N. Bladen St., Portland 11, Ore. Allumbaugh is president of the Oregon Numismatic Society, the Portland coin collectors' group which will be host to the PNNA. Ruff is Oregon representative to the ANA.

The auction will be in charge of Leo A. Young, 3244 Grand Ave., Oakland 11, Calif.

EXHIBIT AWARD

This 2½-inch bronze plaquette is to be awarded at each convention for the exhibit judged to be the "best-in-show" by the exhibit awards committee. The award may not be won consecutively by the same exhibit. First such plaquette was presented to Eugene P. Cooper, San Diego, for his display of ancient Greek coins. Only other best-in-show award was a trophy won by Charles V. Kappen at the 1954 San Francisco convention and presented by the Pacific Coast Numismatic Society.

Who's Who In California Numismatics

ABNER KREISBERG

By R. G. McARTHUR

Concert violinist, painter, equestrian and professional numismatist—that's our boy. Abner Kreisberg was born May 28, 1904, in New York City, where his father, Dr. Benjamin Kreisberg, a practicing dentist, and his mother, a former Austrian school teacher, presently reside.

Abner was educated in the public schools of New York City, being graduated from Townsend Harris High School, a part of City College of New York. Later, he studied accounting at Pace Institute. He studied the violin under the direction of William Schubert, first violinist of the Philharmonic Orchestra, and at the Julliard School of Music. Abner's musical activities included service in both high school and college orchestras.

Just prior to his marriage, Kreisberg traveled extensively, spending three years in St. Thomas, Curacao, Kingston, Panama and Rio de Janeiro.

Abner and his charming wife, Gladys, were married Sept. 27, 1935. They are the parents of two sons. Michael, 19, is in his third year of veterinary medicine at the University of California at Los Angeles. Richard, 16, who is completing his last year of high school, aspires to the dental profession.

In recognition of his work for underprivileged children, Abner was made an honorary life member of Gad Vacation Foundation in New York City on June 20, 1945. He is a Mason of some 30 years standing, being a member of Mt. Masada Lodge No. 902.

During World War I, Kreisberg was a member of the New York

Mounted Police Reserve, which later became a riding club. He also captained a mounted basketball team. Although he still enjoys horseback riding, in recent years he has acquired the fascinating hobby of oil painting.

Abner Kreisberg is a member of the International Association of Professional Numismatists, the Professional Numismatists Guild and the American Numismatic Society. He is Life Member No. 181 in the American Numismatic Association. In addition to the California State Numismatic Association, he is a member of the Central States Numismatic Society and the Iowa Numismatic Association. Membership in local coin clubs includes, among others, Orange County Coin Club, Los Angeles Coin Club, Philadelphia Coin Club and Bronx Coin Club.

With the exception of two years, in his early youth, during which time he had one employer, Abner has been self-employed. For 10 years he was a partner in the internationally known Numismatic Gallery. This firm conducted many large public auction sales, including American Numismatic Association sales in Buf-

Sales Tax Tokens

By PAUL H. HAMM, San Diego

This year approximately $4 billion will be paid into the several state treasuries in the form of state sales tax, which, it has been estimated, is about half of all the income that the states will collect from their citizens.

Did you know that the state sales tax is a very recent form of taxation, having first been inaugurated in 1920, although as a form of taxation it had been considered as early as the first half of the 19th century by the U.S. Government?

After the close of World War I, the automobile, which, until that time was more a contraption used by the wealthier people, and, at some times, was an unreliable means of arriving at a destination, started getting more generally in use and was fast putting Old Dobbin into retirement. With the advent of the automobile, the problem of roads suitable for faster travel, and travel in all kinds of weather, began to be felt. Therefore, all the states started thinking of bettering their already existing roads by widening, straightening and surfacing them. This, however, cost money, and it was up to the states to find a way to raise it.

In 1920 it was decided that if a sales tax were put on gasoline, the ones using the improvements would pay their cost.

Thus we find in 1920 a new form of taxation which has grown from a cent on each gallon of gas sold to the present-day tax on every item sold, which averages about 3½%. The rate varies in different states; also, what is taxed. Some states, such as California, do not place a sales tax on foodstuffs, while others, such as Kansas, do. Some states even go so far as to collect sales tax on rent, sale of property, stocks and bonds; in fact, on anything that is exchanged or used.

Not until 1933, however, was there any great need for the states to change their way of taxation, as the old and tried methods were adequate for keeping their budgets pretty well balanced.

After trying to weather the great depression of 1930 for three years, with the national income way down and the cost of keeping people at work through such projects as NRA, CWA, PWA, etc., it not only used up the alphabet but depleted state treasuries.

In the 24 months from July 1933 to July 1935, we find 24 states passing state sales tax laws to replenish coffers scraped clean by relief demands. All these were called emergency tax laws, supposedly to be used only for a short time, but either the emergency has lasted a longer time than expected, or our lawmakers felt they had too good a thing to relinquish. At any rate, we find now, 22 years later, we still have not only a sales tax but one that is considerably higher.

These laws, although probably born from sheer necessity, met with a lot of opposition. The man in the street started grumbling when he found he was supposed to pay a tax of two cents on a dollar purchase and that when he bought a 10-cent article, he was taxed a cent. Bear in mind there was a depression on, and to be charged even part of a cent was not taken without a great deal of protest.

In the spring of 1935, in 44 cities and hamlets in the state of Illinois, there appeared tokens issued by civic organizations, chambers of commerce and in one case, a Lions Club, a metal token good for $\frac{1}{4}$ cent to be used for sales tax payments and redeemable at designated places such as banks, chambers of commerce or other business clubs, for face value.

These, the first sales tax tokens to make their appearance, were the forerunners of a great many more from 12 states that were to plague the people for several years to come.

The Illinois Provisional tokens, as they are now called, probably are the most interesting and certainly are the hardest to complete.

There really is very little known about the Illinois Provisionals, the exact date they made their appearance or which towns first issued them, although they all made their appearance almost simultaneously in the early spring of 1935. They also were very short-lived, as they were replaced by the Illinois State tokens, which were issued the first week of July 1935.

All 44 varieties bear the inscription $\frac{1}{4}$ -cent, which again no one can explain, as that would require a token for a $12\frac{1}{2}$ -cent purchase. The tax in Illinois was 2%. Each has the city's name, where it was good and the place it could be redeemed. Some were redeemable in U.S. money; others, good for $\frac{1}{4}$ -cent in trade. This would seem to make those issuing them guilty of counterfeiting, as it is unlawful for anyone other than the U.S. Government to issue a coin or token to be used in general circulation.

Among these, we find the greatest rarities of any of the tokens issued. No one knows, it seems, how many were issued by each city, and it is supposed the biggest share of them were destroyed when they were superseded by the state tokens. And, too, they were made of metal; copper, brass and aluminum. So it is probable a great many were melted up in 1941 for scrap metal.

As early as 1938, Di Bello, a well-known numismatist, started a collection of tokens and compiled a want list, now out of print, which is a very desirable authority on the subject. About 1941, George Magee of Philadelphia and also the late Herb Rowald of Kansas City had accumulated a great number of these tokens. Rowald started compiling all the data he could find so he could put into print enough information about them and have available a workable listing. Unfortunately, he died before he had it completed. Wayne Johnston of St. Louis informs me that he was given permission by Mrs. Rowald to go through Herb's material, and is now working on a listing of Illinois Provisionals that, I hope, will be released soon.

Ralph A. Mitchell of Palo Alto is another who has been a long-time collector of tax tokens. He still has most of the varieties and quite a stock of them. Ralph has helped me a great deal with my collection and I probably have some I never could have obtained except for his help.

The token that has been considered rarest is the Astoria, only 10 being known. However, I believe the El Paso and the Roanoke are rarer than the Astoria. Just try to find one!

On July 1, 1935, Illinois issued the first state sales tax token, which was made of aluminum in the value of $1\frac{1}{2}$ mills. Just three weeks later (July 29, 1935), Henry Morgenthau Jr., then secretary of the treasury, ordered the state to withdraw them, as they too closely resembled the dime. He also warned that it was the prerogative of the U.S. Government only to issue coins. Ames, Illinois state finance director, ordered the round one discontinued and issued a square one in its stead, but failed to recall the round ones. This resulted in confusion, as some merchants refused to accept them while others continued to do so.

As I have said before, this form of taxation never has been popular, not only making the consumer unhappy about paying it, but also the businessman because of the extra book work and trouble of collecting it. So in Illinois, the state sales tax law was taken to the courts and early in the fall of 1935, the Illinois State Supreme Court handed down a decision declaring the tax illegal. Not to be daunted, however, and greatly in need of this income, the legislature quickly passed a "retailer's occupational tax" of 3% which raised the tax 1% and was to be levied on the gross sale of all merchandise sold.

For a short time after the enactment of this occupational tax, no attempt was made to pass it on to the consumer. Finally, the large department stores hit upon the idea of posting notices in their stores that "3% will be added on all quoted prices to cover the added expense of doing business in Illinois". This phrase also was carried in newspaper advertisements. Before long, every business concern in the state was collecting a non-existent sales tax, and tokens were being used. The use of the tokens, however, lasted only a short time and within a year they were practically non-existent.

About the same time all this was going on in Illinois, four other states also were readying a system of sales tax collection by use of tokens. On Aug. 26, 1935, Missouri's famous "milk bottle top" tokens made their appearance. This state, having decided to use tokens, found that a printed cardboard could be obtained quickly and cheaply, so an order was given for a round cardboard token printed only on one side in denominations of 1 and 5 mills. When people received cardboard disks in change for their tax cent, the reaction was varied, with the usual gripes and humorous comments we Americans invariably make when something new comes out.

The terms "cooty money", "china money" and "smidgets" were used in reference to these tokens. The Republicans around St. Louis seized on them for political purposes and printed on the backs, "Vote Republican and end the sales tax in Missouri". The second issue was made smaller and the backs were printed, showing what the tax was being used for. But the cardboard soon was found to be very unsatisfactory as the tokens quickly wore out and showed soil. The state next put a law into effect, June 8, 1937, that Missouri-mined zinc was to be used. These were issued in 1 and 5 mills and were used until metal became scarce in 1941. Then plastic was substituted and is still being used, Missouri being one of only two states still using tokens to collect its tax. However, nearly all the stores are using the bracket system except the 5 and 10 cent stores or others handling small sales.

Washington, Colorado and New Mexico also began issuing tokens in the summer or early fall of 1935.

With the appearance of these tokens in five states by September, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau again issued warnings to the states that it was unlawful for anyone other than the U.S. Government to issue a coin or token to be used in general circulation. He also informed them that the U.S. Government would start coining ½-cent and 1-mill pieces which would be placed in general circulation; thereby, a legitimate coin could be used for the collection of tax. The late President Franklin D. Roosevelt designed these two coins. The ½ cent was to have a hole in the center and the 1 mill was to be square. When submitted to the House Coinage Committee, however, it balked and refused to act. The states, the committee said, could shift for themselves. So Uncle Sam watched four states defy his ban but did not prosecute.

Washington decided to issue tokens early in the summer of 1935 but was late getting them started. They were not placed in circulation until August of that year, which gave rise to another provisional. The merchants in need of making change when collecting the tax on less than dollar sales decided not to wait for the state issue, but to make some of their own. Several cities in Washington issued cardboard or wooden tax token scrip to be used until the state got its tokens into circulation. These are all quite rare and are very hard to find.

When the state of Washington did get its tokens into circulation, they first were made of cardboard and for one-fifth cent. Later that year they were made of aluminum and bore the date 1935 and stated that they were for the tax on a 10-cent or less purchase. In 1941, the tokens were made from fiber and bore the date 1941. Plastic later was adopted and was used until tokens were discontinued.

Colorado first issued the square aluminum token in September 1935. Later they were changed to round aluminum and in 1941, to fiber, and then to plastic.

The New Mexico tax law of May 1934 provided for the use of tokens; however, none was issued until the fall of 1935. Dated 1935, 1-mill aluminum and 5-mill copper were the first used. Plastic was substituted in 1942.

In the next four years the seven other states which have used tokens issued them, Kansas and Mississippi in 1936; Oklahoma, Alabama, Utah, Louisiana and Arizona in 1937. The greatest number of varieties are to be found in the Oklahoma and Alabama tokens, with eight each. The different states had different ideas as to composition of the material from which to make their tokens. At one time or another, cardboard, fiber, rubber, copper, brass, aluminum and plastic was used.

Starting sometime in 1941, their popularity began to wane and one state after another discontinued their use. When Mississippi, in 1952, took the token law from its books, all but Oklahoma and Missouri had changed over to the bracket system. Oklahoma and Missouri are the only states that still call for the sales tax to be collected with tokens; however, according to J. D. Dunn, chairman of the Oklahoma Tax Commission, no tokens have been sold from his office since 1952, although a supply is still kept on hand.

Two more states should be mentioned, California and Kentucky. Although there never was a state token issued in either, provisional tokens were used in both. These were issued and used by merchants for a short time to collect the tax on purchases from their places of business. All were of cardboard except for a very scarce one of copper put out by an ice company in Louisville, Ky.

Ohio also had a system which should be included in the sales tax tokens, but since no metal token ever was issued, I will not go into it at this time. I also have two tokens from Nebraska which I will mention. Nebraska never has had a sales tax nor has it had a bonded debt. Nebraskans are proud of this fact. To poke fun at the states that were using the tokens, someone in Nebraska issued tokens on which are printed this information: On one side, "We don't take funny money in Nebraska"; on the other, the facts of the state's financial well-being are well publicized.

When the states discontinued the use of tokens, they called them in and a redemption period was set. The tokens redeemed by the state then were destroyed.

The subject of token varieties could be gone into, but space will not permit it here. Suffice it to say that there are two types of plastic, transparent and opaque; there are large and small letter varieties, etc.

So here we find a coinage by the states that covers a period of about 20 years, and although the U.S. Government certainly never sanctioned the tokens, nevertheless they were in circulation and in some cases were even used as legal tender.

ASSISTANT EDITOR RESIGNS

William H. Spence, assistant editor of Calcoin News, has resigned office, effective March 1.

To quote Bill:

"Due to personal circumstances, primarily the precarious state of my wife's health, and also the necessity for resuming my own educational endeavors, I have found it necessary to withdraw from active participation in numismatic organizational activities. It is my hope, if future circumstances permit, that I again may be able to serve the Association in some capacity."

It is with regret that R. G. McArthur, president, and Charles V. Kappen, editor, accept Bill's resignation. It has been a pleasure to work with him. It is hoped that Mrs. Spence's recovery will be speedy and complete.

SUN YAT-SEN

1867-1925

By DR. C. GLENN CURTIS and BILL TOBITT

There is—or was, the last we knew—an impressive pile of masonry resting atop Purple Mountain overlooking the City of Nanking, China. Within this massive mausoleum lies—or did lie—the body of the father of the Chinese Republic, Dr. Sun Yat Sen.

We're confused about the tense to put this in because our coin character for this month was mixed up in Chinese politics, and you know how confusing that is. For all we know, the commies have torn down Sun's sarcophagic surroundings and used the bricks to throw at Formosa.

Anyway, Dr. Sun—he won his degree at the Hong Kong School of Medicine—is credited with being the sparkplug of the rebellion that ended the reign of the ancient Manchu Dynasty and set—on paper, at least—a republican type of government in China for the first time.

Sun had his troubles. He first formed the Young China Party to push his ideas of Westernism for China and they whomped up a bit of a revolution in 1895. It fizzled, and Sun skipped off to the United States, where he talked up his ideas for the next 16 years.

He must have talked plenty, because in 1911 he went back home, charmed his redhot youngbloods out on another revolt and then stepped in as provisional president of the new Southern Chinese Republic in 1912. Sun wanted all of Northern China in on this thing, too, so he turned the president's job over to Yuan Shih-kai almost immediately. The idea here was that Yuan was pretty big potatoes with northern China.

Yuan, however, leaned more North than South and managed to kick Sun's outfit, the Kuomintang, out of the government. Once more Sun set off for foreign shores, this time, however, only going as far as Japan. Here he sat it out until 1916 when Yuan died.

So Sun skipped back to China and, with the help of a group of influential Cantonese, managed to beat the party in power and, in 1921, get himself elected President of the Southern Chinese Republic. The next year his army kicked up its heels and Sun scooted to Shanghai for sanctuary. Once more, in 1923, he swooshed back to Canton and the top spot.

Sun was still head man for Southern China in March 1925. As such,

So-Called Dollars

By R. G. McARTHUR, Oakland

I very strongly suspect that the term "So-Called Dollars" was first used by a coin dealer, who found himself overstocked with silver dollar size medals. When first used, the name was applied to any piece which closely approximated in size, weight and feel, either the silver or the gold United States dollar. The series, as presently constituted, includes exposition and commemorative medals, as well as those pieces which are political or quasi-monetary in nature.

The writer, being a man of limited means, has spent untold hours rummaging through dealers' junk trays in search of less expensive numismatic items. A large number of recognized "So-Called Dollars" were thus acquired before their true significance was discovered. Much credit for this discovery goes to Richard D. Kenney for his excellent monograph, "So-Called Dollars", which was published by Wayte Raymond, Inc. of New York, as the July-August 1953 issue of The Coin Collector's Journal. All references in this article are to Mr. Kenney's catalog.

The series includes pieces struck in a variety of metals, including gold, silver, copper, brass, bronze, gilt and aluminum. Incidentally, the first aluminum pieces to appear were struck for the Columbian Exposition of 1892-93. However, aluminum, due to its light weight, did not prove popular and hence, with the "Brian Boru Crown", made its exit from the series in 1910.

A measure of dignity attaches to some of the commemorative pieces, in that they were struck by the United States Mint or were struck at the several expositions on mint machinery, under mint supervision. These include the "Lexington Dollars" of 1875 (K-3, K-4, K-5 and K-6), struck to commemorate the battle of Lexington; the "Centennial Dollars" of 1876 (K-7, K-8 and K-9), commemorating the 100th anniversary of American independence; the "Nevada Dollar" (K-46), also issued in 1876; the official Columbian Exposition pieces of 1893 (K-47, K-48 and K-49); the official Louisiana Purchase Exposition souvenir pieces, struck in 1903-04 (K-56, K-57, K-58, K-59 and K-60); the Panama-California Exposition pieces of 1915 (K-86, K-87, K-88 and K-89); and the familiar Panama-Pacific pieces, also struck in 1915 (K-90, K-91 and K-92). To this list should be added the rare "Wilson Dollar" (K-180 and K-181) which was struck in 1920 to commemorate the opening of the mint in Manila, P.I., the dies for which were made by George Morgan of the Philadelphia Mint.

The writer has encountered but two commemorative pieces which purport to be other than medals. The first is the "Henry Hudson Daalder" of 1909 (K-71 through 77), which bears the denomination 1 DAALDER on its reverse. The other is the "Brian Boru Crown" of 1910 (K-84 and K-85) which shows on its reverse the denomination AON CROIN (One Crown). Incidentally, the Brian Boru crown or Irish-American token, appears to be the only piece in the series to have been sponsored by a numismatic organization, the New York Numismatic Club. In time, no doubt, some recent tokens or medals, issued by numismatic organizations, will be recognized as "So-Called Dollars".

Chief of the political group are the "Bryan Dollars". They are mostly larger than a silver dollar and were issued purely for use during the presidential campaigns of 1896 and 1900. While they are treated by Mr. Kenney in his book, they hold no particular interest for your writer and will not be discussed in this article.

Also political in nature are the "Referendum Dollars" issued in 1900 and 1901 by Joseph Leshner of Victor, Col. (K-130 through 144). Octagonal in shape and containing an ounce of coin silver, they undoubtedly saw service as a local medium of exchange. With five major types and many subvarieties, they are one of the most interesting as well as the rarest of the entire series of so-called dollars.

The following have three things in common; all are dollar size, all contain an ounce of silver and all were issued in 1933. They are the Montana Dollar (K-165), the Colorado Dollars (K-166 through 169), the Pedley-Ryan Dollars (K-170 through 174) and the Nevada Dollar (K-175).

As to the Bryan Dollars, the Leshner Dollars and the entire group of Montana, Colorado and Pedley-Ryan Dollars, values have been pretty well established. However, as to the commemorative and exposition pieces, there is much confusion. Even the old, established dealers do not agree. For instance, just a few weeks ago, the writer purchased a

Brian Boru crown in aluminum (K-85) from a well-known San Francisco dealer for $3.50. One week later, an equally well-known Los Angeles dealer advertised it for $32.50. Thank heavens, I purchased mine before the price went up. A few short years ago, I purchased a Wilson Dollar (K-180) from a San Diego dealer for $10. He still hates me, as shortly thereafter it was quoted as high as $90. For several years, I hunted through all the dealers' material, watched all the auction catalogs, and inquired at all conventions for one of the William Penn Dollars (K-105 and K-106), but simply could not find the elusive little piece. One day, a few weeks ago, I happened to see it in the junk tray of a local dealer. With fear and trepidation, I asked him to let me see the tray, as there might be something in it that I could use. After fingering most of the medals in the tray, I gingerly picked up the desired piece and, as nonchalantly as possible, asked the price. Imagine my delight when he said, "Aw gimme 50 cents."

So, fellow numismaniacs, if you want to get in on the ground floor, while there is still time, get a copy of Kenney's book and start hunting for the commemorative issues of the "So-Called Dollars".

VALUES OF ANCIENT MONEY

The denarius of Roman rulers is the most frequently mentioned coin in the New Testament. It was a day's wage of the common laborer (Matt. 20:1,2). It was the money paid to the innkeeper by the Good Samaritan (Luke 10:3,5). Its silver value is approximately 16 cents in U.S. money.

The 30 pieces of silver or Greek tetradrachm had an exchange rate of four denarii each or a total of 120 denarii at the time of Christ. One hundred and twenty days labor or lodging at $15 each would compare at today's value of $1800 approximately, even if the metal value of the silver would be only $19.20.

Mabel's Ducks

As a story usually is enlarged in its telling until the original facts are long lost, it is refreshing to get a story such as this one, which contains only the bare, essential, unbiased (?), true facts.

Mabel Patterson is a shy, reserved, intelligent girl — a very nice person when you get to know her (and you should). But she has one fault — a fault which I think most men would like to find in their wives, also, to some extent, anyway — she asks her husband Pat's advice, especially on what foods to eat, and always takes that advice.

Always, that is, excepting just one time. It is on that one time that hangs the thread of our story. The Pattersons and the Earl Parkers went into some greasy spoon joint to eat on their way to the Riverside convention two years ago, and duck was on the menu. Now, Mabel isn't supposed to eat greasy foods but she saw roast duck and it sounded good. "Pat," she said, "they have roast duck on the menu. Can I have it?" "No, honey, you can't have it. It's too greasy," Pat replied. Mabel turned to the waitress and said, "I'll have roast duck."

This being the only time anything like this ever had occurred, and, of all people, Mabel Patterson going against the advice of her dear husband, it was absolutely unheard of, took the party completely by surprise, and of course it was such a different pitch for her they nearly knocked themselves out laughing over it. In fact, they were nearly kicked out of the joint, they made such a commotion.

At Riverside the story lost nothing in its telling and became a popular topic of conversation anytime Mabel got within earshot. As the chance for a good gag was too much to pass by, in January 1955, Mabel was enrolled in the most exclusive club in the entire world, the Duck-a-Month Club. She is Member No. 1 and the only member. Each month, more or less, Mabel has received from this exclusive club some kind of duck. The beautiful moth-eaten duck she so luckily received at Santa Barbara was another in the string of monthly gifts which fortunately have come her way. This lucky girl has received all sorts of figurines, pictures, table cloth and napkins, bottle opener, apron, towels, TV planter, paper weight, and goodness knows what else — all "ducky" items which should make hers one of the most unusual collections in existence. Aren't you glad you collect coins?

Scott McCormac of the San Gabriel Valley Club displayed and talked on Civil War tokens at the Oct. 18 meeting. The speaker suggested that collections could be formed by type, such as by cities or states, by patriotic insignia, by die sinkers, by tradesmen's tokens, and by dies or metals. Attendance was 84.

Present at this — the 100th meeting — were nearly all past presidents and charter members of the club. Visitors included L. C. Panosh, ANA president, and Mrs. Panosh; H. S. Davidson, CSNA vice-president, and Mrs. Davidson.

The club's wooden nickel, commemorating the 100th meeting, was displayed and offered for sale. Mrs. Dan Harley exhibited the Iceland commemorative set.

McARTHUR FOR BOARD

The many friends of R. G. McArthur are urging him to accept nomination to the ANA Board of Governors this year. The East Bay Coin Club already has started the ball rolling and it is expected others will follow.

For several years McArthur has been active in local clubs, having served two terms as president of East Bay Coin Club, as well as secretary of the CSNA. He presently is CSNA president.
